

MONICA
TSETHLIKAI, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
Arizona State University

CHILDREN: MEMORY AND CULTURE

Dr. Monica Tsethlikai is a William T. Grant Scholar, a Native Children's Research Exchange Scholar and the recipient of two Ford Fellowships.

Her research examines cognitive development in children with a special focus on memory in social contexts. She is also interested in cultural aspects of cognitive development and memory. In addition, her work examines how individual differences in basic cognitive processes relate to the development of social competence and well-being.

Dr. Monica Tsethlikai obtained her Ph.D. in Psychology (cognitive and quantitative) in 2005 from the University of Kansas.